

Subject: Letter of Recommendation for Mr. Rod Rodriguez

To Whom It May Concern:

Rod worked under my supervision as a web designer/developer from May, 2000, until February 2001. His responsibilities included validating html and enforcing web-publishing standards for our main client, Sun Microsystems. In addition to working on several special projects, he also worked to build and maintain Sun Micro's supply chain partner web portals. During the course of his employment, Rod proved himself to be an able employee, a hard worker, and a talented web designer.

I was quite impressed by Rod's ability to complete all work assigned to him on time, if not before it was due. His work was always thorough and comprehensive, and his html always flawless. Rod always did more than his share of the work on the projects he was assigned. He often took the initiative to get things started and picked up the slack when things were going slowly.

Overall, Rod was a very conscientious and able employee. I strongly recommend rod for any web designer/developer position.

Sincerely,

Jay Scherberth
